

Blog Article: Blogs and Wikis and 3D, Oh My!

Contributed by Sean Hocking
Friday, 16 May 2008

The Volokh Conspiracy is one of the most widely read legal blogs. It has been cited in court rulings. Its readership stands at over 700,000 unique visitors a month

<http://www.insidehighered.com/news/2008/05/09/blogs>

, many from academe and some from within the Supreme Court itself. Written by legal scholars and boasting instant, in-depth analysis of top court cases, the blog probably has more influence in the field — and more direct impact — than most law reviews.